Information You Must Disclose

As you will be aware, you have a duty to disclose all 'material circumstances' to your broker or insurer before you can be insured. This is known as Duty of Fair Presentation. You must do this at the outset and then throughout the period of your cover.

So, what is a material circumstance? Broadly speaking, this is anything you know of (or should know of) that would influence the judgement of an insurer in deciding whether to insure the risk – and on what terms. For instance:

Your Overall Insurance History

- ✓ Any claims and loss history
- ✓ Losses or incidents where claims were not made
- ✓ Adverse credit history
- ✓ Refusal by an insurer to offer cover (Insurance declinature)
- ✓ Injuries to members of the public

Business & Employment

- ✓ Theft or fraud by an employee
- ✓ Claims made against a director or trustee, even if in connection with a different organisation
- ✓ Accusations of misleading advice or design

Property, Including Construction, Rental and Storage

- ✓ Property construction, including planned buildings works
- ✓ Unoccupancy details
- ✓ Change in tenants
- ✓ Previous damage at the property, including vandalism or squatting
- ✓ Signs of cracking or subsidence
- ✓ Types of goods stored

Health & Safety

- ✓ Activities in hazardous locations, including airside
- ✓ Injuries to members of the public
- ✓ Health & Safety Executive (HSE) Prosecutions
- ✓ Vehicles carrying hazardous substances
- ✓ Unusual products, activities or processes

This is not an exhaustive list and if you are in any doubt as to what information might be material you should disclose it to us.

Our proposals for your insurance

We are proposing a policy with ERGO UK via Beech Underwriting Agencies Ltd at a total cost to you of £1,352.46 which is inclusive of Insurance Premium Tax at 12% and any fees. The policy provides you with wide-ranging cover which meets your insurance requirements. The cost includes the CLEAR MPW Client Administration Fee of £75 per annum which is charged once per policyholder. This is for policy amendments, documentation and general administration. The invoice we send to you will separately identify and specify the amount of the client administration fee payable by you.

The breakdown in the cost of the policy can also be found in the What you will Pay section below.

We appreciate that the premium quoted does represent an increase when compared to last year, however, most of this relates to the increase in the Building Sum Insured.

The insurer will pay us commission, which is a percentage of the total premium you pay.

Significant Warranties, Conditions, Exclusions & Subjectivities

Warranty
A very strict condition in a policy which must be exactly complied with as failure to comply entitles the Insurer to deny liability for a related claim.

Condition Precedent to Liability
If you breach a condition precedent the Insurer may avoid any loss created by the breach, for example an Alarm not being activated and theft occurring.

Exclusion
A provision in the policy that excludes the Insurer's liability in certain circumstances or for specified types of loss.

Subjectivity
Where there is a subjectivity or a condition or the words 'subject to' are detailed in your insurance documentation you are required to comply with that subjectivity. If it is not complied with in the timescale referred to:

- your insurer has the right to amend the terms and conditions of the cover
- your insurer has the right to amend the terms and conditions of the cover and amend the premium
- your insurer has the right to amend the premium
- your insurer has the right to withdraw cover

Terms and Conditions applicable

The Insurer's Schedule and Wording includes Significant Policy Terms, Conditions, Exclusions and Warranties. You may be tempted to skim through these because they're not easy to read or understand but please read them carefully as your Insurer can put extra clauses into the policy to change its scope or leave cover out altogether. Please also ensure your tenants are aware of the policy terms and conditions.

We would like to draw your attention to the following main clauses that apply to your policy. If you don't understand a condition, or can't see how it will work for you, contact us so we can explain it to you.

- Increased Construction Excess: the excess for damage caused by or arising from storm or flood in respect of any portion of the insured building constructed of bitumised mineral felt is increased to £500.

- Minimum Security Clause: theft cover is excluded unless the minimum protections details on page 3 of the Renewal Notice are in force and operational.

You must not undertake building works without insurers express written agreement.

- Pipe Lagging: all cover for escape of water will be excluded unless you ensure that there is a heating system linked to a frost-stat and a minimum temperature of 4˚C is maintained between 31st October and 31st March, or all pipes are adequately lagged to prevent freezing.

Assessing Your Declared Values / Sums insured

Make sure your policy's sums insured (that's the maximum amount your insurer will pay out for a claim) is enough to cover any loss or damage. If your policy makes reference to a 'Declared Value' this is the figure that you will need to check to ensure it remains adequate at the beginning of each period of insurance.

Most commercial policies contain an "Average Clause". An insurer can use this clause if you have not set your declared value or sums insured at the amount required to cover a total loss. For instance, if you have only insured for 50% of the total value at risk, you'll only receive 50% of the value of any claim.

Example:

Total value at risk £1,000,000

Declared Value / Sum Insured £500,000

Amount claimed £25,000

Amount insurer will pay £12,500

If you're not sure your sums insured are enough, you can hire a professional valuer to help you work out what they should be.

Remember when you're setting your sum insured for Loss of Rent you'll need to take into consideration the income you receive from renting the property and how long it would take you to reinstate the property and start receiving rental income again in the event of a total loss. This usually takes the form of a 12/24/36 month term.
