CMC Bio Filter Transfer of Obligation

The bio filter which services The Courtyard and Rock Lane Farm is owned and maintained by the Courtyard Management Company (CMC). There are currently 22 properties which are connected to these services. All of these properties have an equal obligation for the maintenance and upkeep of these essential services.

The annual maintenance includes servicing, emptying several times a year, electricity and Environmental Agency Discharge charges. In addition, there are occasional costs for new pumps and parts. All costs are divided equally between properties which are currently connected.

Invoicing is on an annual basis a year in arrears. This is so the CMC can provide an invoice which reflects the full and accurate costs of these services. The responsibility for payment of the bio filter charge lies solely with the owner[s] of the property to which the bio filter is connected.

Invoices are available on the CMC Bio Filter Portal, a link to which is provided on the annual invoice. Servicing documentation and servicing invoices that make up all Bio Filter costs are also on the portal to ensure full transparency.

Due to the sensitive nature of the bio filter, attention should be drawn to the list of prohibited substances at the end of this document.

Yours Sincerely

CMC Directors

CMC - The Courtyard Management Company

I/we hereby agree and confirm with CMC that as from the date of completion on the purchase of [8 Rock Lane Farm]("the Property") I/we will be responsible to CMC for payment of the proportionate share of payments as they relate to the Property for the provision of Bio Filter services as mentioned above.
